"THE ANGEL OF DIEN BIEN PHU," as she became known to the wounded she nursed, stole out of a car after arriving in Hanoi, to meet members of the press who were anxious to hear her story.

A WHITE CARRIER PIGEON is fondled by Marshall Tito after carrying greetings to him on his 62nd birthday. To mark the occasion, relay runners from all parts of the country converged on the presidential palace in Belgrade to extend their best wishes.

ENGLISH "TAPOSHKA"—This terry cloth beach jacket, designed by Ray Blarck of London, has a hood which doubles as a carryall for books and magazines for the beach, or as protection for rainy moments. In pink and white, there's a matching matching case on a string, so the wearer can't be "hoodwinked" for lack of adornment at the right moment.

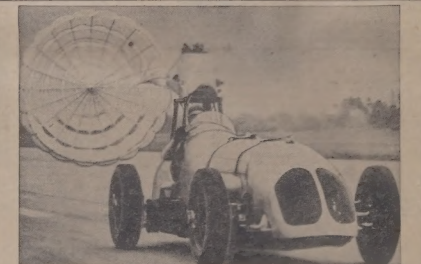

WHO CARES?—"Pierre" doesn't. It's sufficient that he's been brave enough to cross this thin bridge at Vincennes Zoo, in Paris, France. The deepfreeze put on by the penguin on father side makes no-over-mind. Pierre has a bouquet for the lady of the air-conditioned Arctic evening—who else? (Bapt. Pierre.)

Aerial view of Hatanan Power Plant and river. Black line "A" indicates location of underground pipe by which cooling water is pumped from plant back to river system. "B" shows dotted lines which indicate site of new plant addition. Each portion of plant (left and of building) is original Dominion Electric Plant.

PREP FOR BATTLE—Rocky Marciano, heavyweight champion of the world, smiles as if he's pleased to have the head of a warrior at the Greenough, New York training camp. He will do battle with Bernard Charles, right, at Yankee Stadium on June 12 and he is hoping he'll be the first man in fight history to regain the title he once held.

A NEW RETRACTABLE PARACHUTE BRAKE, designed to slow down aircraft after landing, is demonstrated by a carrier on the runway, England, airport. The eight-foot chute, shown at maximum spread, can be retracted into its case by an electric winch.

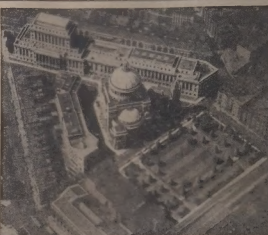

INTERNATIONAL EMBLEMS—No matter what flag they fly, beauties acquire an allegiance of admiration from all the boys everywhere. These lovely water shows performed, from left, under the flag of Great Britain, France, the United States, Spain and the flag of the Confederate States of America, during a festival at Portofino, Italy.

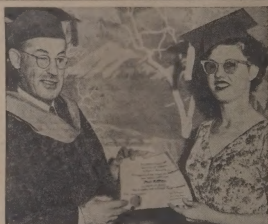

THE USS-565, captured off the African coast in World War II by the United States Navy, is shipboard by tug through Montreal harbor on her last voyage—a one-way trip to the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry. The 200-foot, 600-ton submarine, once one of the biggest in Germany's underwater fleet, was the first war prize seized by an American boarding party since 1918.

FOR KITTEN'S BRITCHES, TOO—Children's traditional "snarky" answer to a question, "isn't far to make kitten's bristles," isn't too far from the truth. Scientists at Syracuse University in New York State are producing a number of products from the common plant, the evening primrose, and believe the byproducts could someday help all the world's food and fiber needs. Dr. Ernest Reed, leader, director of the Cattle Research Centre, and researcher Leland Marsh examine fibers from the plant. On table, from left, some byproducts of their research are: Cattle milk, which, when prepared, can be eaten like potatoes; cattle dung, and cookies baked from the flour; there, a handful of cattle stems, and pieces from the stems used for caulking barrels.

AIR VIEW of the Christian Science world headquarters in Boston, Mass. Dome-topped office in center is the extension of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, completed in 1908. To the right of dome is tower of the original building, completed in 1894. To the left of extension is administration building. In the background is block-long home of The Christian Science Publishing Society. Park in front of Church is maintained by the denomination.

IN THE HIGHEST DEGREE—Most-treasured "degrees" she could receive is accepted by Mrs. Davis Bailey, of San Francisco, Calif., from Dr. William C. Fleming, dean of the College of Dentistry of the University of California. It's a "Ph.D."—putting hubby through (school). Blinded eight years ago by an eye disorder, for 25 years she has helped support her husband, by working as a typist, while he finished his studies. Some 26 other wives receive honors for aiding their husbands obtain college degrees.

"FIREHEAD" REACHES Montreal Airport on her way to solitary residence in Grassy Zoo, which asked for two animals, preferably a pair, but got only one. The other, offered by a scientist at Breckinridge, Long Island, went to Tennessee's zoo. Grassy had planned to raise arctic foxes but wasn't aware that they have never been known to breed in captivity.

SMILE OF THE WEEK

A small boy trudged up to the librarian and put a rather dog-eared edition of "Advanced Calculus" on the desk for return. The librarian automatically checked his card and turned to retrieve the book on the shelf when she noticed the title. As she turned to the boy and said, "Either technical, isn't it?"

The youngster stared at her defiantly. "What do you mean?" he asked. "It was like that when I got it out!"

The moon has some craters that are 100 miles across. 3096.

City Under The Ice

Nelson, Herman, in the role of young newspaper woman named Cora, got herself into a peek of trouble when she showed up on a space ship and ended up in the grip of some "mole men" in a strange city beneath the antarctic ice. Attempting to return her here as space ship colleague Major Will Brand and Archy Porter (played by Arthur Hattling and Olive Schaefer). But the three of them will not be surprised when they see "The Black Mass" (Gyde Douglas) waving a machine like revolver in their ears. It's all part of the fun on the current radio series, "City under the Ice," which is being produced every Wednesday at CBO's Halloway Studios and is relayed by the Trans-Canada network to adventure-loving kids right out to the west coast.

possible to resolve the issue. But it is more than just another labor dispute. On the one hand the employees think they are entitled to more benefits, while the employers reply that the competitive position of railway transportation make further benefits impossible. Since the railways are essentially a public utility, the government must in the end dictate the solution.

Make Courtesy Your Code Of The Road

Provincial and civic leaders have endorsed the safety program which began on June 30th under the slogan: "Make Courtesy Your Code of the Road."

H. B. McDonald, M.L.A., President of the Alberta Safety Council, reports that 46 groups in cities, towns, villages and municipal districts recently campaigned for improved motor manners. New applications for campaign material are being received every day.

Mr. MacDonald credited Premier Manning's Highway Safety Conference of May 14th with giving the safety movement a tremendous lift. He said that the desire of the public to reduce traffic accidents is now being backed by action. "Public opinion," he said, "is turning against those drivers who disregard the rights of others and chief seven points of the courtesy code as a basic guide to defensive driving."

Canned Pork Sold

During the epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan two years ago the livestock market was demoralized. To prevent collapse the federal government loaned and caused 96,294,000 pounds of pork. Some of this was disposed of on the domestic market. Recently the remainder was sold to Canadian packing firms. It is said that the canned pork was sold to Cochin's. The total government loan in the deal was $21,911,000.

C.N.R. Begins Work on New $20 Million Hotel

The Canadian National Railways plans to have its projected $20,000,000 hotel in Montreal completed by the early fall of 1957.

This was the target date set this week by Donald Gordon, chairman and president of the railway, in announcing that work would commence immediately on the new 20-story building.

His statement was made following the third reading of the Canadian National Finance and Guarantee Act by the Senate. Presumably the Act had been passed by the House of Commons.

"The entire work program over the next three years has been carefully laid out and scheduled," Mr. Gordon said. "Everything has been decided upon except a name for the new hotel, and we have the benefit of a large number of suggestions to choose from."

Canada's productive forces are chiefly composed of engineers.

Liquor Consumption

Canadians spent $921 million on alcoholic beverages in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1953. That is a 12 per cent increase over the $782 million drink bill of the preceding year. Ten years ago the Canadian annual drink bill was $311 million.
